

Corporate Expense Reimbursement Policy

1. Policy Overview

This document defines the company rules for employee expense reimbursement, approval workflows, compliance, and fraud monitoring.

2. Eligible Expenses

Eligible expenses include business travel, meals, lodging, client meetings, conference registration fees, internet access, and approved transportation costs.

Expense Category	Allowed
Airfare	Yes
Hotel	Yes
Meals	Yes
Alcohol	Restricted
Luxury Goods	No
Personal Entertainment	No

3. Non-Reimbursable Expenses

Non-reimbursable expenses include personal entertainment, traffic violations, luxury purchases, gambling, personal subscriptions, and family member expenses.

4. Expense Submission Requirements

Employees must submit expense reports within 30 days of the transaction date. All required receipts and supporting documents must be attached.

5. Receipt Policy

Receipts are mandatory for expenses greater than $25. Digital receipts are acceptable if they clearly show vendor, amount, and date.

6. AI Compliance & Fraud Monitoring

Expense Amount	Approval Required
<$500	Manager
$500 - $5000	Director

>$5000	Vice President
>$20000	Finance Committee

The company uses AI systems and machine learning models to analyze expense submissions, detect fraud patterns, identify duplicates, validate policy compliance, and flag suspicious transactions.

7. Examples of Fraud Indicators

Potential fraud indicators include duplicate receipts, repeated weekend charges, excessive meal expenses, mismatched merchant categories, altered receipts, and unusual travel patterns.

8. Approval Workflow

Expense reports are routed through automated approval workflows based on amount, business unit, and expense type.

9. International Expenses

International expenses require currency conversion documentation and may require additional approvals depending on region and spend amount.

10. Data Retention

Expense reports and supporting receipts are retained for audit purposes according to corporate compliance standards.

11. Employee Responsibilities

Employees are responsible for ensuring expenses are accurate, business-related, and compliant with company policy.
